What do Resident Advisors do?

The Resident Representative Council will meet monthly with Bolling Family Housing management to express neighborhood concerns, offer ideas and work in tandem on Hunt identified property initiatives, Resident Representative Council members are also encouraged to voice ideas on new, different or improved resident events. They are a conduit for residents to voice their ideas, as well as concerns related to Bolling Family Housing. They provide feedback on current policies, procedures and offer recommendations to management on addressing, responding to and resolving community issues.

You! Bolling Family Housing is currently accepting volunteers from anyone who is a current resident in the community.

BOLLING FAMILY HOUSING (BFH) RESIDENT REPRESENTATIVE COUNCIL

Purpose and Structure of the Resident Representative Council

The Resident Representative Council (RRC) will include all BFH volunteer resident representatives, the BFH Leadership Team and invited guests as appropriate. Resident representatives are Bolling Family Housing residents acting as liaisons between the housing community residents and Bolling Family Housing (BFH). Each representative will be assigned an area in a designated neighborhood, within the community, which may or may not be the area within which they reside. Additionally, we would love to find out what kind of fun things we can do for our families.
